Unicef celebs: Jab world with surplus vaccines

CELEBRITIES including David Beckham, Olivia Colman and Billie Eilish have written to world leaders calling for surplus coronavirus vaccines to be shared with poorer countries.

In an open letter, published ahead of the G7 summit on Friday, the Unicef ambassadors said the meeting was a "vital opportunity" for action to be taken.

Otherwise, the world would continue to be at risk from future mutations of the virus.

"The world has spent a year and a half battling the COVID-19 pandemic, but the virus is still spreading in many countries and producing new variants with the potential to put us all back where we started," the letter reads.

"The pandemic will not be over anywhere until it is over everywhere, and that means getting vaccines to every country, as quickly and equitably as possible."

COVID deaths drop below 100

THE number of deaths involving coronavirus registered each week in England and Wales has dropped below 100 for the first time in nearly nine months.

A total of 95 deaths registered in the week ending May 28 mentioned COVID-19 on the death certificate, according to the Office for National Statistics (ONS).

It is the first time the number has been below 100 since the week to September 11.

It is also the lowest total since the week to September 4.

PROFESSOR DOOM DASHES FREEDOM DAY HOPES

'Two week delay' to be announced

DOWNBEAT: Chris Witty

FREEDOM day could be delayed by a fortnight after Chris Witty gave a 'downbeat' assessment to ministers, it's been claimed.

The June 21 milestone could be pushed back to allow all over-50s to be fully vaccinated and give time for the jabs to take effect.

The Cabinet are split on the issue, with some urging Boris Johnson to exercise caution while others say the focus must now shift to the economic recovery.

In several interviews yesterday, Environment Secretary George Eustice said the government "don't rule anything out" in terms of changing the timetable.

But he also insisted the data on vaccines was "encouraging" and a final decision will not be taken until next Monday.

Former health secretary Jeremy Hunt appeared to add weight to claims of a delay.

Mr Hunt, who chairs the Health and Social Care Committee, said he was "feeling quite optimistic that we are going to see the restrictions lifted", as "being double-jabbed" works against the Delta variant of coronavirus first identified in India.

"So, if Freedom Day ends up being put back a couple of weeks so we can get more people double-jabbed, I think it will only be a temporary setback," he said.

He added: "I think we are on the way to getting back to normal."

Medical and science chiefs Prof Whitty and Sir Patrick Vallance reportedly gave a "fairly grim" update on the situation to ministers, underlining that jabs can never provide 100 per cent protection and variants are significantly more transmissible.

Whitehall sources said contingency plans are being drawn up for a possible 'short' delay to give scientists more time to consider data and allow the NHS to carry out more vaccinations.

Despite the vaccine success, some ministers are spooked by a surge in COVID cases.

Minchin quitting BBC Breakfast for 'lots of lie-ins'

BBC Breakfast host Louise Minchin is to leave the Beeb after almost 20 years.

Minchin (above) first hosted the morning show in 2001 and became lead presenter in 2012 when production moved to MediaCity in Salford.

She told viewers she had "loved" being on the show but "it is time I stopped setting my alarm for 03:40".

She said she would leave "some time after the summer" and would take "lots of happy memories" away.

"We've had fun times. We've had some incredible guests."

"I love hearing people's stories, I love being able to tell their stories."

Asked what she would do next, she replied: "Anybody who watches will be very well aware my passion is endurance sport and I will absolutely continue to do that."

"I've got lots of really exciting adventures planned. I'm trying to write a book about that as well."

"And I'll be having lots of lie-ins. That's what I'm most excited about right now."

Virus hangover for pub landlords

AROUND a third of pubs have seen their profits slashed by more than half and furlough rates continuing to soar despite welcoming customers back, according to new research.

The Office for National Statistics said confidence in the pub industry has increased but 33 per cent of landlords still suffered "significant profit losses" last month.

The ONS stressed this was an improvement after heightened restrictions around Christmas resulted in "huge losses in trade" at the end of 2020.

The Economies Of Ale report showed that 24% of pub businesses had high confidence of surviving the next three months, compared with around 44% for all types of company.

BANGERS BAN IS BONKERS

Ministers braced for WAR with EU over sausages

ENVIRONMENT Secretary George Eustice branded as "bonkers" a situation in which British-made sausages could not be sold in Northern Ireland amid continuing rows over post-Brexit border arrangements.

Mr Eustice said the EU had been "slow to engage" with efforts to iron out difficulties ahead of the ending of a grace period in the agreement between the UK and the bloc which allows Northern Irish shops to continue selling chilled meats, including sausages and mince.

But Brussels warned it is ready to act "firmly and resolutely" to ensure the UK abides by its commitments in the Northern Ireland Protocol and does not unilaterally grant an extension at the end of June.

Mr Eustice said he had "no idea" why the EU imposed "idiosyncratic" rules on the movement of chilled meats.

"I suspect it links to some kind of perception that they can't really trust any country other than an EU country to make sausages," he told LBC.

Fears

"I think that's a nonsense. I think we've got a very good sausage industry in this country, we've got the highest standards of food hygiene in the world."

And he insisted "there's no problem with our sausages or indeed our chicken nuggets".

The row centres on EU fears that goods from Northern Ireland may enter the single market.

Former French European

EUSTICE: EU 'slow to engage' minister and MEP Nathalie Loiseau said: "We are warning you signed an agreement, you have to implement it."

"Otherwise, there are measures that we can take legally that will protect our single market."

And in an article for the Daily Telegraph, the European Commission vice president

Maros Sefcovic said they would "not be shy" in taking action to ensure the UK abides by its international commitments.

Britain has already angered Brussels by unilaterally extending grace periods in the Protocol on supermarket goods and parcels.

And Mr Sefcovic said the commission would not tolerate further failures of compliance by London.

He added: "Unfortunately, we see numerous and fundamental gaps in the UK's implementation, even though the Protocol entered into force over 17 months ago."

But Mr Eustice countered: "There are lots of ways to give the European Union the assurance that they say they want for their single market and what we should be doing is working together to identify ways forward."

"And that's where the European Union have been quite slow to date to engage."

SNAKES ON A PLANE!

Engineers find their parked-up jets are infested with RATTLES

MECHANICS at a huge aeroplane storage facility have found parked jets crawling with deadly rattlesnakes.

And they're using a high-tech tool to battle the venomous rattlers: BROOM HANDLES.

Thousands of planes, put out of use by the pandemic-fuelled travel downturn, have been sitting idly in hangars in the American southwest for much of the past year.

And Qantas Airlines mechanics at a storage facility in Victorville, California, have found many of their craft crawling with scorpions, as well as Mojave rattlesnakes in and around the wheel wells.

Crippled

"The area is well known for its feisty rattlers, who love to curl up around the warm rubber tyres and in the aircraft wheels and brakes," reported Tim Heywood, a Qantas engineering executive.

"Every aircraft has its own designated 'wheel whacker' (a repurposed broom handle) as part of the engineering kit."

It's rattlesnake season in the Californian Mojave desert and Qantas engineers based at the airline's Los Angeles hangar have a new pre-inspection procedure which involves whacking the aircraft to scare off the hissing.

As the coronavirus pandemic crippled global travel, airlines around the world stored or retired thousands of aircraft in what are known as "airplane graveyards" in the deserts of southern California and Arizona.

Many of those aircraft have since returned to ferrying passengers. But hundreds of the largest planes, including giant double-decker Airbus A380 jets used for long-haul travel, remain mothballed in these desert facilities.

The aircraft are carefully monitored while in storage, with mechanics now taking special care to watch for slithering creatures.

Passenger tried to storm cockpit

A FLIGHT was forced to land after an unhinged passenger tried to break into the cockpit yelping "STOP THE PLANE".

The plane flying from Los Angeles to Nashville, Tennessee, was diverted to Albuquerque, New Mexico.

On a video taken by a fellow passenger, the crazed man is heard crying out "you gotta stop this plane" at least 25 times and with increasing urgency as three men near the cockpit hold him down on the floor.

The suspect was taken into custody in New Mexico and the aircraft then continued on to Tennessee.

"The passenger was not successful. The plane landed safely and the passenger was removed by police and the FBI," Delta said in a statement.

Tourist twin sisters bitten in croc attack

TWO British twin sisters are in hospital in Mexico after being attacked by a crocodile while swimming in a lagoon.

Melissa and Georgia Laurie, 28, were swimming at night in Manialtepec Lagoon, near popular tourist town Puerto Escondido 450 miles south-east of Mexico City, when a crocodile dragged Melissa under the water.

Their father Sean Laurie said Georgia, a diver with life-saving experience, found Melissa (above) face-down in the water several minutes later.

He said Georgia tried to bring Melissa back to their boat but the crocodile attacked again.

Mr Laurie said: "Georgia had to fight it off. She kept punching it in the head."

The sisters were rushed to hospital with bite injuries. Melissa was put in a medically-induced coma.

- 2 Role play - uniforms
- 3 Bondage - spanking and whips
- 4 Sex outdoors
- 5 Threesomes
- 6 Rubber/latex leather
- 7 Domination and submission
- 8 Body piercings
- 9 Food sex play
- 10 Blindfold sex

THE Top 10 sexual kinks of men and women are revealed in a new survey.

Women's favourite kinky habit is al fresco sex, particularly on the beach.

In second place on the female list is blindfold sex, with body piercings in third place.

Fourth place is role play and in fifth place is filming each other having sex - making DIY porn which lovers can enjoy watching together after making love.

The results are from a new survey of 2,000 people by IllicitEncounters.com, the UK's leading affairs site.

Spanking

Men's favourite kinks show significant differences.

In top place is making DIY porn with a partner.

In second place is role play, particularly dressing up for sex with uniforms such as secretary, nurse and police officer.

In third place is bondage, particularly spanking or the use of whips.

Fourth is sex outdoors, with the beach also the favourite location followed by a park and a beauty spot.

Fifth place on the male list is a threesome with two other women. The survey found that 74% of men and 67% of women have a 'kinky side' and there are elements of forbidden sex they enjoy.

Nearly a third of men (32%) and a similar number of women (31%) keep their kinky passions a secret from their partner.

Almost half of men (45%) and slightly fewer women (38%) start affairs because there are sexual kinks they want to try out which they cannot do at home.

The vast majority of men having affairs (78%) and slightly fewer women (72%) say their illicit lover is more likely to experiment with kinky practices than their partner at home.

IllicitEncounters.com relationship expert Jessica Leoni said: "The beauty of online dating is that you can be up front with people and let them know in advance that you would like to kink it up if you get together."

"The issue lots of people in long-term relationships have is that their kinky side develops over time and they find that they eventually have different sexual needs that their regular partner can never satisfy."

By GRACE HOOPER
news@sundaysport.co.uk

HOW KINKY ARE YOU?

RELATIONSHIP expert Jessica Leoni gives her verdicts:

- If you have tried 7-10 of the sexual kinks - you kinky devil! You have a very adventurous sex life and would enjoy life most with a partner who feels the same way.
- If you have tried 4-6 of the sexual kinks - you don't want sex to be too vanilla but you are not into extremes.
- If you have tried 1-3 of the sexual kinks - try to be a little more experimental, you might well enjoy it. Sex is like food, it gets boring if you have the same thing all the time.

STITCHED NUTSACK: Unlucky EJ Snyder

REALITY SHOW STAR'S BALLBAG HORROR

A REALITY show contestant ripped open his BALLBAG after falling from a tree while naked.

Army veteran EJ Snyder suffered the gruesome injury on the set of the Discovery Channel's extreme reality show, Naked and Afraid XL.

The show sees a group of elite survivalists attempt to live naked in the deadly swamps of Louisiana for two months.

During last week's episode, Snyder fell from a tree branch and into a swamp, sustaining multiple tears to his scrotum.

Snyder told a female member of the show's medical team: "I fell in, the branch broke, I hit a stick."

"It just lacerated, but it's OK. It's just an open wound. All I need is a couple of stitches."

The shocked medic replied: "You need a lot of stitching." Snyder was immediately given the option of either quitting the competition and going to hospital, or having stitches on-site and going on with the show.

Discussing the health risks of Snyder staying in the competition, a medic told producers: "The worst case scenario is an infection, a loss of genitalia, and if he becomes septic then it could be fatal."

Despite the grave warning, brave Snyder opted to stay in the game.

He received eight stitches in his nutsack and was told to stay out of the water and avoid overly-exerting himself for seven to 10 days to ensure the wound healed properly.

Lipman: Floppy cocks made me quit Gogglebox

MAUREEN Lipman quit Celebrity Gogglebox because of FLOPPY COCKS!

The Corrie star said she ditched the show on account of the excess of "dangly bits" she had to see in nude dating show Naked Attraction.

Paired with old pal Giles Brandreth, she thought appearing on the Channel 4 show would simply be "a few quips and done".

But she revealed the hours of filming made the process something to be "endured" and claims the editors axed her "witty" lines.

Lipman (above) told Radio Times: "They're not really interested in our opinions on what they're giving us."

"I'd seen Gogglebox and I thought 'Oh, [ours] is the grown-up version, is it?'"

"But it's your reaction to 12 dangling willies they want. They're searching for ways to make me go 'Urgh!'"

"So I thought 'Well, actually, no, life is too short to watch a series of hopeless men dangle their bits and pieces in my direction'."

"So I'm going."

Burglar grabs underwear and a sex toy

A MAN helped himself to underwear and a sex toy in a burglary.

Joseph Melhado, 30, admitted stealing the items from a property in Wigganhall St Germans, Norfolk, when he appeared at Norwich Crown Court.

He also admitted a second burglary charge.

His barrister, Nicholas Bleaney, asked for a pre-sentence report into the case, which he said was "very unusual".

Mr Bleaney said he accepted a custodial sentence would be very much on the table but told the court that Melhado would benefit from having a report prepared to explore various options.

The case was adjourned for a pre-sentence report.

Melhado, from King's Lynn, Norfolk, will be sentenced on July 15.

Leftie Brighton slammed for udder madness...

COUNCIL SET TO BAN 'RACIST' DAIRY FOOD

By COLIN HURST news@sundaysport.co.uk

A BARMY council is to hold a debate about BANNING dairy food from schools and civic events because milk is RACIST!

Brighton and Hove City Council, which is dominated by the left-wing Green Party, will also discuss banning meat from menus after a crusade by an Extinction Rebellion campaigner.

The madness began in March when eco-campaigner Alison Plaumer led a deputation to the council complaining about "inherently racist" grub being served up in municipal canteens.

And despite her petition gathering a puny 300 signatures, the issue is to be debated by the council's Children, Young People and Skills Committee.

Ms Plaumer and a fellow climate change campaigner, Anna Cole, are calling on the council to drop meat from the menu at council events.

And they want schools to serve only food derived from plants on at least two days a week.

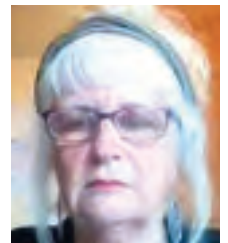

Intolerant

In their supporting evidence, they said: "It is estimated 65 per cent of the world's population are lactose intolerant, the majority of whom are of BAME descent."

"As such, there is an inherent racism to have national food standards that, if followed, would make the majority of people of colour ill."

"Plant-based foods suit all diet types, as well as religious dietary guidelines, eg, halal."

When Ms Plaumer spoke at the full council meeting in March, Green councillor Elaine Hills said: "Plant-based food certainly has a much lower carbon footprint than a conventional diet. I agree it is something we should focus on to meet our carbon neutrality goals."

PETITION: Alison Plaumer

"The Green group has for a long time campaigned for healthier and more environmentally friendly options being made available to support the health of pupils and the planet."

She said schools across Brighton and Hove currently have two meat-free days every three weeks.

A vegan option was available every day for those children who are registered as vegans and a meat-free option was always available in schools.

One ratepayer fumed: "The council should be picking up dogshit and emptying bins, not debating every hare-brained notion dreamed up by daft bints."

She captioned the pic: "Now I'm 31, I just do boujee bh stuff, so on that note, you'll find me in the hot tub ALL DAY."

One fan said: "I'd drink that water, every drop, in the hope she'd done a little wee in it."

800 ARE NABBED IN GLOBAL STING

DRUG dealers in the UK are among crims duped into using an encrypted messaging service that was run by the FBI.

The international sting involved a system called ANOM that was secretly monitored by law enforcement.

Millions of messages about drug dealing, money laundering and planned murders were accessed by authorities in the UK, US, Europe, Australia and New Zealand.

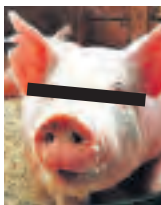

Around 800 suspects have been arrested in 16 countries.

ANOM, the idea of the FBI and Australian police, was set up in 2019, and grew to service 12,000 encrypted devices linked to more than 300 criminal gangs operating in 100 countries.

The UK National Crime Agency said it had carried out "multiple operations" as a result of the sting, codenamed Operation Trojan Shield.

A spokeswoman said: "We are proud to have been a partner in what has been an innovative and complex operation to target criminals."

Porn stash showed sex with pigs, cows, horses and chickens

COPS found a bag containing pornographic DVDs of both women and men having sex with animals, including PIGS, when they raided a man's home. Derby Crown Court heard how the films, one of which was called 'Zoophilia', showed sex acts between humans involving horses, pigs, dogs and even a chicken at Richard Brett's address.

The 56-year-old said he had bought the movies over a number of years and claimed he believed them to involve sex between consenting adult actors.

He told police he had not watched any of the films involving the creatures.

Prosecuting, David Earl said police had searched Brett's home in Belper, Derbyshire.

A number of electronic devices were seized, along with a bag containing 180 DVDs from a bedroom.

Mr Earl said: "Among them was one called 'Zoophilia' which showed a woman in a sex act with a dog.

"The DVDs were sent for digital forensics and 18 of them contained extreme pornography.

"They showed sex acts involving women with dogs, horses and pigs and men having sex with a chicken and a cow."

Brett pleaded guilty to possession of extreme pornography and was given a two-year conditional discharge.

VOTE FOR BIGGER BOOBS!

MP goes for bust

By GRACE HOOPER news@sundaysport.co.uk

AN OnlyFans star-turned-aspiring politician is tapping into her sex appeal and offering free boob jobs in a bizarre vote-getting gambit.

Rocio Pino has stripped naked on the campaign trail and engaged in a variety of sexy stunts to get elected to Mexico's parliament.

Among her campaign slogans are "Give your mum tits" and "Because a woman with tits is an empowered woman".

Currently pregnant, the sexxx-rated impresario charges subscribers £80 a year and is hoping her unique approach will get her elected.

She has about 60,000 OnlyFans subscribers.

Using the moniker La Grosera (The Rude One), she is running for the Progressive Social Networks party and has become a phenomenon in the land of the jumping beans.

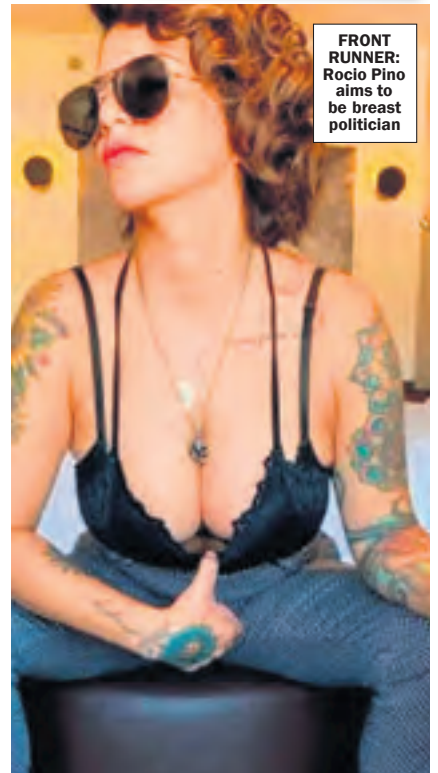

But there is a more altruistic side to La Grosera. She wanted to get involved with politics after volunteering during the 2017 Chiapas earthquake.

And her main campaign promise is free breast augmentation for women.

"What we least need right now are more traditional, corrupt and male-chauvinist politicians," she wrote to her 263,000 Twitter followers.

She also wants to teach girls about abuse in school, sanction deadbeat dads and protect women from cybercrime.

A source added: "She gets my vote."

Ride naked but wear a MASK!

BIKE riders at a nude event must wear one thing... a mask!

Organisers of the annual Philadelphia Naked Bike Ride say this year's event on August 28 will require masks, based on the city's earlier coronavirus restrictions.

The city lifted most of its COVID-19 rules last week, citing an increase in vaccinations and a decrease in cases.

But ride organisers said they hadn't chatted since the guidelines changed, so for now they're "going to stick with our initial mask guidance".

Riders usually strip off and paint each other's bodies before hopping on their bikes.

The naked ride is to promote positive body image, advocate for the safety of cyclists and protest dependence on fossil fuels.

Murder accused teen's mum held over 'tampering'

THE mother of Aiden Fucci, the teen who police say savagely killed a classmate, has been arrested and charged with tampering with evidence in the case against her son.

Fucci, 14, is accused of stabbing 13-year-old cheerleader Tristyn Bailey 114 times.

Now his mother, Crystal Smith, has turned herself in to the St. Johns County Sheriff's office, Florida.

Citing surveillance video taken during the murder investigation, a police report states that "the defendant can be observed going to (Aiden Fucci's) bedroom at approximately 12.55pm, retrieving what appeared to be a pair of blue jeans, taking the jeans to the adjacent bathroom and appeared to be scrubbing the jeans in the bathroom sink."

She returned the jeans to Fucci's bedroom about 30 minutes later, according to the report.

Fucci (above) is being charged with first-degree murder and will be tried as an adult.

Jankovic, of Ohio, was taken to Memorial Hospital, where she died hours later.

"A full inspection of the roller coaster has been performed and it was determined that the ride operated as it was intended to," the theme park said in a statement posted to Facebook.

"Holiday World & Splashin' Safari officials ask for your thoughts and prayers for the guest and her family, as well as for team members who were onsite."

The results of an autopsy on Jankovic are being withheld pending family notification.

SEX-MAD Ann Denise loves getting down and dirty...in the shower. And her favourite position under the steaming stream is doggy-style. Ann, from Manchester, says she enjoys a kinky bonk in the bathroom any time of day, but the 34DD babe also likes getting frisky al-fresco and wants a bloke to take her in the great outdoors.

Dripping

She said: "I love doggy-style sex, especially in the shower."

"I get really turned on by the feeling of warm water slowly dripping down my boobs and back as I'm being taken from behind."

"I love the thrill of doing it in public, too. I'd love have sex outside properly though. "Maybe in a field or on a quiet beach."

'N' HORNY

AS KEEPING UP WITH THE KARDASHIANS ENDS, KIM REVEALS WHY SHE DID THAT SEX TAPE...

BECAUSE I WAS HORNY & I FELT LIKE IT

KIM Kardashian has lifted the lid on why she made a sex tape with rapper Ray J.

The 40-year-old reality star confessed: "Because I was horny and I felt like it."

In a recent episode of Keeping Up With the Kardashians, Kim explained why they had talked about the controversy on the debut episode of the series, which is nearing its end.

And in a new interview, she said: "I do think that, obviously, as producers, I'm sure they loved it. And loved [us] wanting to talk about the elephant in the room."

"And I probably wouldn't have, unless it was for the show."

"Sometimes I feel like, 'OK, I know I should probably deal and get this over with. Someone's gonna ask me, so I might as well just do it.'"

In the episode, Kim's sister, Kourtney, helped her to prepare for an appearance on The Tyra Banks Show.

Kourtney asked her sister why she made the tape with rapper Ray J, to which Kim replied: "Because I was horny and I felt like it. Filming has helped us deal with things, instead of sweeping them under the rug."

"I was always open and honest and wanted to share whatever I was going through. I wasn't gonna hold back."

KUWTK producer Farnaz Farjam said: "We jumped in with both feet in the first episode."

"Then the audience can get to know the family at a much deeper level than what's been tabloid headlines."

KIM'S BIG ARSE LEADS NEW TREND - P12

Man lopped cock off and flushed it away

A MAN cut off his dick and flushed it down the lavvy!

He told paramedics he had been suffering from untreated chronic pain "in that area".

The man was found by his mother when she came to visit him.

Paramedics staunched the bleeding and took him to Soroka Medical Center in Beersheba, Israel.

Police asked Beersheba's water and sewage management if they could locate the cut-off organ so it could be reattached.

A source at the sewage works said: "Even if it had been possible to find it in all the millions of gallons of effluent we deal with, would he really want a shitty dick back?"

ART LOVER PAYS £13K FOR... NOTHING!

A BARMY art lover paid a whopping £13,000 for an INVISIBLE sculpture!

Italian artist Salvatore Garau, 67, sold the artwork, titled 'I am', to the unidentified buyer, with a certificate of authenticity to prove it's real.

The 'air and spirit' sculpture is intended to be displayed in a 5ft by 5ft square in a private space without artificial lighting or air conditioning.

The artist described the piece as a 'vacuum', because 'the vacuum is nothing more than a space full of energy'.

"Even if we empty it and there is nothing left, according to the Heisenberg uncertainty principle, that 'nothing' has a weight," Garau (left) said.

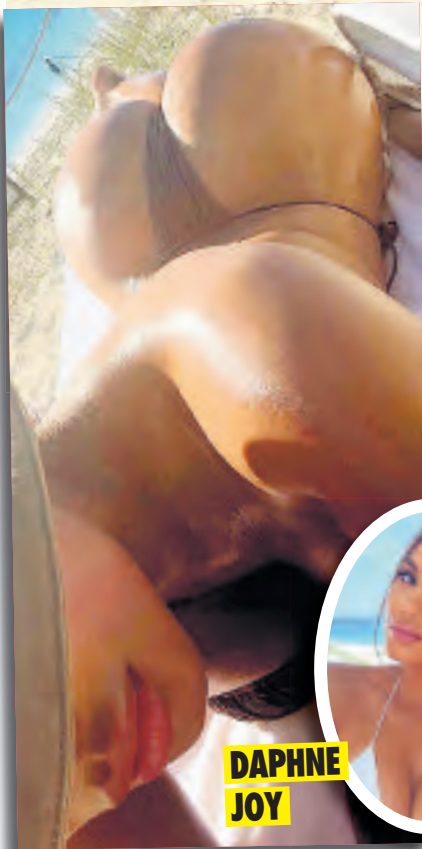

"Therefore, it has energy that is condense and transformed into particles, that is, into us."

His work quickly sparked controversy online, as people offered to sell their own 'exquisite invisible artworks'.

BUNCH OF ARSE!

Why bots are hot for summer 2021

DAPHNE JOY

ONCE upon a time arses were small and kept out of the way.

Ladies with larger sit-downs spent hours in agony on exercise bikes and starved themselves by eating lettuce leaves to reduce the size of their trumppers.

But now bums are back in a BIG way!

And thanks to the vacuous craze of women sharing every moment of their lives on social media, the likes of Twitter and Instagram are full to bursting with big old arses.

In the last week alone, Instagram has been rammed with ladies showing off their lower cheeks.

Former Love Island star Gabby Allen showed off her rear with an athletic handstand.

And Daphne Joy, who once dated 50 Cent, revealed her botto on a beach while Geordie Shore hottie Chloe Ferry risked melting her plastic bits when she posed, arse-front, on the scorching sands.

And big-bum pioneer Kim Kardashian gave us another chance to see her buttocks in a sexy snap to mark getting three-quarters of a BILLION Insta followers.

One arse fan said: "I like a big arse, me!"

Head Miss sent pics of lover's aroused penis

A SCHOOL worker says she was forced to take racy photos of her boss, a female high school head, who wanted the snaps to send to her lover.

Gisselle Vasquez, 35, a secretary for Principal Evelina Medina, 42, has now launched a sex harassment lawsuit.

Ms Medina texted Ms Vasquez (above) a photo of a man lying on a bed in his underwear and told her to save the photo for her, according to the lawsuit.

The next day, Ms Medina gave Ms Vasquez her phone and asked her to take a photo of her and "then lowered her trousers to her ankles, turned around and exposed her buttocks and posed," the lawsuit says.

Four days later, Ms Medina texted Ms Vasquez "a photo of a man lying in bed holding his exposed erect penis" and made comments about her lover's penis size and how it satisfied her more than her husband's.

The lawsuit, in Yonkers, New York, is seeking an unspecified amount in damages.

Naked burglar 'flew to site on a broomstick'

A MAN who was found trespassing naked in a camper van told cops he'd flown there on his BROOMSTICK.

Cops say they were responding to a burglary call when they located an unclothed Joshua Kelley, 32, inside the van.

Their report states that Kelley claimed he had ridden a broom to the vehicle and did not know his own name.

Officers said their investigations revealed that Kelley had broken into another camper van about 20 miles away from the scene in Grant Parish, Louisiana, taken his clothes off, then stolen a gun and an all-terrain buggy.

Kelley was arrested for burglary, indecency, criminal trespassing, resisting an officer and theft.

Whether it's Kate Humble down at the farm or Jimmy Doherty down by the farm, Countryfile or joining the idyllic Owens family at the Swaledale farm, we love the great outdoors.

And thanks to the pandemic, many of us as spending more time there.

Of course, we've always known that some things are better in the countryside.

IT'S BEEN 25 LONG YEARS SINCE ENGLAND

When football NEARLY came home!

FOOTBALL was supposed to be coming home in 1996.

The England team, the brightest and most talented it had been in years, was well up for it and the home fans were right behind them.

Of course, England ended up losing (as ever) after a penalty shoot-out with Germany, and that was ultimately the end of that.

But what a ride the country had along the way.

Twenty-five years later and with the delayed Euro 2020 approaching fast, we take a look back at the wildest of football summers...

FAN-TASTIC: Supporters were given something to cheer about

FOR one glorious month in the hot summer of '96, it felt like football really had come home.

England may have ended up failing to triumph on their own turf but that did not stop the tournament from being a cracking experience.

Players and fans alike were left with a lingering feel-good factor that has been sorely lacking in most major finals since. But what made it so special, apart from the fact the sun was shining and England were winning, for a while at least?

"It was not only that we reached the semi-finals, it was that we had a lot of fun along the way, and I think the whole country did too," said Alan Shearer.

"It was great to be playing all our games at Wembley and the atmosphere kept getting better the further we went."

There was something exceptional about

By KOURTNEY KENNEDY
news@sundaysport.co.uk

that England side too. Shearer describes it as the best he played in during his eight-year international career and they had a team spirit to match.

England's pre-tournament get-together in the Far East had ended in disgrace, as players engaged in some alcohol-fuelled debauchery in a Hong Kong nightclub.

Booze

Media reaction was unforgiving: "DISGRACEFOOL" screamed one headline, alongside a picture of Gascoigne in a "dentist's" drinking chair, with Teddy Sheringham and Steve McManaman, all soaked in booze with garments clinging to their bodies.

Gascoigne took the brunt of it: "Look at Gazza... a drunk oaf with no pride" read another headline.

Veteran commentator Barry Davies, who covered the tournament for the BBC, said: "What started that off was a rather defensive siege mentality after a couple of off-field incidents and a few drinking sessions."

"They took a lot of stick from the press and I think that gave them a feeling of 'we'll show you'."

And show us they did, to a summer soundtrack supplied by the Lightning Seeds, David Baddiel and Frank Skinner, who together sang England's official song Three Lions.

There were memorable lobbed goals by Davor Suker and Karel Poborsky who helped make sure that surprise packages Croatia and the Czech Republic, who lost to Germany in the final, made a splash in their first appearances on the Euros stage.

Scotland were the only other home nation to qualify for the finals and they came agonisingly close to making the last eight.

After a 0-0 draw with the Dutch and losing to THAT amazing Paul Gascoigne goal for England, Craig Brown's side beat Switzerland 1-0 thanks to an Ally McCoist goal.

They finished third in Group A on goals scored, due to Patrick Kluivert's late consolation for the Netherlands in their 4-1 hammering by England.

But it was England who really got the party started.

Terry Venables' side began slowly with a stuttering 1-1 draw against Switzerland, a match notable only for Alan Shearer's first international goal in 12 games.

He ended up with five for the tournament, enough to win the golden boot as top scorer.

Things quickly got better for England. Lots better.

Gazza's spectacular solo strike, and his "dentist's chair" goal celebration afterwards, helped to sink Scotland 2-0.

Demolished

And the Netherlands were demolished 4-1 in what was at the time arguably England's best result at a major finals since they beat West Germany in the 1966 World Cup final.

The iconic imagery kept coming in the quarter-finals too.

England had to scrap to earn a shoot-out win over Spain but there was the sight of Stuart Pearce's fist-pumping celebration after putting away his penalty that helped send them through.

Then, of course, came the semi-finals, Germany and the end of the dream, but only after a truly epic encounter.

Davies, who was at Wembley commentating, said: "That was special."

"If somebody told me you are going up to heaven and you can take one game with you, I

ON SONG: Skinner, Baddiel and the Lightning Seeds

HOSTED EURO 96...

REFRESHING:
Gazza's great goal and that controversial celebration

JOY AND MISERY:
Stuart Pearce scores
his penalty but now-
England boss Gareth
Southgate doesn't think I would take that England game.

"I'd try to get the result changed when I got up there, though. It was a huge atmosphere and of course England were incredibly unlucky in the end."

A Shearer header gave England the lead after three minutes but Germany soon levelled through Stefan Kuntz and, of course England could not find a winner.

Teddy Sheringham had a shot cleared off the line, Shearer sent another header wide, and Darren Anderton hit the post in extra-time.

But the chance you will probably remember best of all came when Gazza lunged to try to turn in Shearer's cross, but missed it by a matter of millimetres.

Unreal

"When I was doing England matches, there were two goals which weren't scored, which should have been," Davies added.

"The first was Gary Lineker versus Argentina in the 1986 World Cup which would've it made it 2-2 in the quarters.

"It was one of those 'oh no' moments, not that I said it in the commentary, but I thought it to myself.

"It was the same with Gascoigne when the ball rolled across the box in extra-time.

"By then the game had become almost unreal. It was golden goal then, so it would have won it."

It was left to penalties to decide the winner, and an all too familiar ending from England's point of view.

Shearer, David Platt, Pearce (again), Gazza and Sheringham were successful from the spot but Germany also scored with their first five efforts.

That meant sudden death and, after Gareth Southgate's tame effort was saved by Andreas Kopke, Andreas Muller stepped up to fire Germany into the final.

"It was such an exciting match and it had a sad conclusion," added Davies, who has covered 10 World Cups, seven European Championships, and countless internationals. "I can honestly say that when Gareth walked up to take his penalty I did not fancy him at all.

"There was something wrong with his body language and you just get a feeling.

"It was horrible to lose like that, after coming all that way."

Southgate, of course, is now the England manager.

Can he banish the memory of his missed penalty to history by helping England to finally bring home that Euro 2020 trophy?

40 YEARS IN PRISON FOR ROBBING SHOP WITH A WATER PISTOL

Rolf begs for release

A MAN serving a life sentence for robbing a fast food joint with a plastic water pistol is asking to be set free after 40 YEARS behind bars.

Rolf Kaestel, who turned 70 last week, has been in the slammer since 1981 for a crime in which no one was injured and he made off with the whopping sum of £186.

"I have not been able to make any sense of it," Kaestel (above) said.

"Not because it's me or my case, but because this kind of thing should not happen anywhere to anyone."

Shocked

Even the cashier Kaestel held up four decades ago at Senior Bob's Taco Hut in Port Smith, Arkansas, wants Kaestel released. "I actually apologised to him because I felt like even though he was the one that robbed me, I felt like I had taken his life because he had been in there for so long," Dennis Schlutterman said.

Schlutterman said Kaestel had displayed the gun by pulling his jacket back, but never threatened him.

He was "shocked" to find out the robber was still doing time.

"Many nights I sat there and thought about it," Schlutterman, who was 17 at the time of the robbery, said.

"I couldn't believe that he was still there." "This man has paid the price 10 times over. It's time to let him go."

State Governor Asa Hutchinson, who denied clemency to Kaestel in 2015, has to make the call again.

Kaestel has been a model prisoner. He has worked as a paralegal, earned three associate's degrees and taught an astronomy class while in prison.

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

Why are ad breaks filled with guilt trips?

"PLEASE," say the adverts every ten minutes, "send us just three pounds a month".

Otherwise, this dear little scraggy, flea-bitten donkey, with twitchy ears and everything, who dreams of being in YOUR CHILD'S nativity play, will die.

And die badly. Dreadfully. Awfully. So bad we might even put his death – bolt to the head? – in our next ad.

It'll be on in ten minutes...

But the poor beast probably died about a decade ago, not too long after the advert was actually made.

And it's the same with the blind tattooist bloke waiting for his guide dog.

Considering the years I've been seeing that dirge, if he still hasn't got one by now then I can only shudder to think of the state of his shins.

It's mad that certain parts of the world are happy to use horrific forms of torture to inflict pain upon their detainees.

Why not just force them to do what I do, by making them watch 24-hour news channels all day long with their accompanying adverts that are

WE'RE having a proper row near me about the state of our beach.

An extraordinary number of locals – and the missus and I – have bunched together to campaign to have our beach raked clean of weeds after the council, without asking anyone at all, stopped doing it two years ago.

It now looks not like the place you'd take your kids to build sandcastles, but where you might consider scattering their ashes after they're found dead from swamp mosquito bites.

The usual brigade of happy clappers are, of course, in favour of the mess. All in the name of "leave it to nature".

But these berks don't leave anything else to nature. They're all over evil social media, using evil machines powered by evil tech giants which were designed by evil capitalists and manufactured in evil countries.

And some of them even wash their remaining hair with evil right-wing shampoo, I'm told.

They're about as radical as radish.

little more than in-your-face begging letters?

Jemima has no water. Johnny has no food. This little lad is lacking teeth.

See this girl? This one we've filmed in super-duper close up? She's got a cleft lip.

HOW MUCH WILL YOU GIVE US NOW?

Look, I have absolutely no idea how successful these horrible, money-grabbing guilt trips actually are.

But I guess, by the notion they're still there each and every day and all day, probably quite successful indeed.

It'd be nice to see the occasional update, though, wouldn't it?

I'd like to see that little girl's lip fixed (if it can be?).

For all I know, she could be 27 and now working as a top catwalk model.

I want to see that donkey frolicking carefree in a field.

And I'd really like to see the blind tattooist still not blind tattooing but at the very least taking a stroll around the local park with his guide dog as his lead.

Bugger. I'm going to have to donate.

Car chase man hurled baby at cop

A MAN hurled a two-month-old baby at a cop after he took police and the child on a high-speed chase through residential neighbourhoods.

John James III, 36, tried to shake sheriff's deputies in Indian River County, Florida, for 40 minutes with the kid in the car.

The sheriff's office posted edited dashcam and helicopter video of the chase and James struggling as deputies try to cuff him while one deputy holds the baby.

The actual baby toss is not visible in the footage.

Deputy Jacob Curry, who caught the baby, said: "I've seen some crazy stuff but this is definitely up there."

"It wasn't a nice underhand handoff from a foot away, it was a throw."

James (above) is facing charges including aggravated child abuse, aggravated battery on an officer/firefighter/EMT, reckless driving and resisting arrest.

Judge says assault weapons 'good for home and battle'

A JUDGE has overturned California's three-decade-old ban on assault weapons, stating they are "good for both home and battle".

U.S. District Judge Roger Benitez, of San Diego, ruled that the state's definition of illegal military-style rifles unlawfully deprives law-abiding Californians of weapons commonly allowed in most other states and by the U.S. Supreme Court.

That violates the US constitutional right to bear arms.

"Under no level of heightened scrutiny can the law survive," Benitez said.

He issued a permanent injunction against enforcement of the law but stayed it for 30 days to give state Attorney General Rob Bonta time to appeal, which he has pledged to do.

By TIM WHITTARD news@sundaysport.co.uk

NESTLED in the Cotswolds and just a stone's throw from Prince Charles's country home at Highgrove, the Gloucestershire market town of Stroud was this year named the best place to live in the UK by The Sunday Times.

But the town is also reportedly a hotbed of BIG CAT activity.

Stroud has featured in several documentaries and even inspired a comedy film on the subject.

And the local Stroud Brewery created and named a beer in honour of the town's own legendary cat!

Now a new documentary examines paw prints found in the Forest of Dean, near Stroud, which some believe proves that Tiddles's big cousins are prowling the countryside in the south west corner of England.

Carl Marshall, assistant director for the Centre for Forfeiture Zoology, who found and recorded the prints, believes the tracks "were possibly left by a lynx", but it is also possible that another large cat species was responsible.

Carl noticed the

tracks when looking for wild boar with other naturalists and he was confident he had found something unusual after carrying out what is sometimes called the 'X test'.

Carl said: "Healthy dog tracks are usually symmetrical. If this track was canine in origin, then two straight sticks should sit neatly between the first and second toes, and the third and fourth toes, and cross diagonally, without touching either edge of the rear plantar pad, nor any of the adjacent toes."

His theory is backed up by an experienced animal expert who knows a thing or two about big cats.

Kelci 'Saff' Saffery stars alongside Joe Exotic and Carole Baskin in Netflix's smash-hit documentary series Tiger King: Murder, Mayhem & Madness.

He gave his support to the production of the documentary, Britain's Big Cat Mystery.

What's more, he's a believer in the big cats of Britain.

Saff said: "The paw print is definitely a cat, what with the lack of claws."

"Even the way the front paw semi-aligns with the back paw in stride."

Britain's Big Cat Mystery, by Dragonfly Films Video Production, is currently in the hands of a distributor.

Until a television premiere date is known, the best chance of seeing this film will be when it is screened as part of the Forfeiture Film Festival which is coming to the Sherborne Cinema in Gloucester to host Big Cat Night on August 27.

By COLIN HURST news@sundaysport.co.uk

SEXY Emma K is not just a top-flight glamour girl, she's also an amateur WEATHER FORECASTER.

And the 32E cracker from Derby reckons we're in for a really long hot summer.

Emma revealed: "According to my calculations, the hot weather will last all though the rest of this month, through July and into August.

"It's gonna be a scorcher and I'm glad I've got a swimming pool!"

And Met men agree.

Yesterday they predicted that a heatwave could hit the UK by this weekend, with temperatures up and down the country set to rocket.

Caution

It comes after warm weather over the past few weeks saw people flock to beaches and parks, prompting caution from public health officials for people to continue to follow social distancing guidelines.

Gathering crowds soaking up the sun could soak up COVID too and risk the June 21 opening up from all the restrictions of the past year.

Emma said: "Lots of people have been vaccinated now so the risk of another major outbreak should be low, but I'd rather be cautious than have to be kept away from friends and having a good time."

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY

Page

Dear Bexie,

LAST week I was drinking in an unfamiliar pub when I clocked a stunner alone at the bar.

I went over and chatted her up but, as she was in the ladies, a guy warned me: "You want to be careful there, they've all had her."

I took no notice and back at my place we were soon stripped off. She gobbled me to hardness, nibbling and teasing my bellend before sinking my whole shaft to the back of her throat.

I swivelled round so that her furry bush was over my face and I thrust my tongue deep into her dripping cunny.

After gorging myself on her musky love-juices for a bit, I licked the length of her slit.

Then I got her love-bean between my lips and sucked hard on it as she wriggled her round arse in appreciation.

We spent hours banging away before finally collapsing exhausted. But a bloke came up to me in the pub the other night and reckoned her fella is after me.

Should I be worried?

VD, Cheshire

Bexie says...

YES, stick to single women from now on.

Dear Bexie,

I'M a bored, randy housewife in a rural area and for a hobby I have started claypigeon shooting at a farm where my instructor is the hunky farmer's son.

It wasn't long before we sacked off the shooting and he took me for a bang in the bushes.

My husband now wants to learn to shoot with me, but I'm afraid he'll find out what I've been up to.

Is it too risky?

DG, Suffolk

Bexie says...

YOU'RE bang on target, ggirl. Find something else for the two of you to do instead.

Mum and daughter combo gave me one hell of a ride

Dear Bexie,

I'M a 40-year-old divorcee and I moved in with my girlfriend of the same age.

She has a 20-year-old daughter who is a cracker.

The other night in bed, I felt my bird's hand on my cock. Then I felt her kissing my helmet.

But I realised it wasn't my bird sucking my dick – it was her lass!

Then her mum edged her out of the way and took me into her mouth and I shot my load.

I was soon stiff again and my missus hopped on it. Then they swapped over and I rode the pair of them into the early hours.

Is this normal?

GD, Birmingham

Bexie says...

IT'S not conventional but, if you're all happy and satisfied, then good luck to you!

Dear Bexie,

THERE'S a good-looking lad who mows next door's lawn that I've always had a crush on.

Last week I plucked up the courage to invite him into my house for a brew and we "clicked".

In fact, we spent the afternoon shagging. He had an amazing body and great stamina – and an eight-inch cock that he really knew how to use for my pleasure!

He is 20 and I am 40 – but the problem is my neighbour knows and has threatened to tell my hubby.

Should I tell him first?

HY, Essex

Bexie says...

SPILL the beans!

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week BEXIE WILLIAMS has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

I'm in the doghouse since my toilet romp

Dear Bexie,

MY wife and I have been married for 22 years and we work for the same firm – which has turned out to be a disaster.

In the department where I'm usually based there are a couple of very attractive young female colleagues.

One of them is a horny thing in her mid-20s who has been married and divorced twice!

We normally go to the canteen together and she's always talking about the outrageous kinky sex she has with her latest fella.

She goes into graphic details of how he shags her and I often get a hard-on listening.

Me and the wife do have quite a healthy sex life despite being married for so long but she's not into anything out of the ordinary, whereas I'd like to try a bit of experimenting in bed every now and again.

One lunchtime me and this girl were chatting and she was telling me how her bloke took her doggy-style the night before.

She asked if I'd ever done it that way and I had to admit that, amazingly, I hadn't.

So she said: "Would you like to?" and I nodded eagerly.

With that she got up and told me to follow her to the ladies' loo.

I waited a while to make sure the coast was clear, and then I dashed in and she dragged me into one of the cubicles. My dick was almost bursting out of the thin material of my trousers as she unzipped me and took it out.

I reached under her flimsy top and unfastened her bra to release her beautiful firm breasts.

Then I took a nipple between my lips and sucked as she caressed my knob.

She slipped off her knickers before bending over the loo with her gorgeous bum in the air.

Ram

"There you go," she said. "Ram it home as hard as you like."

I crouched down and in one thrust I was in – and it felt great.

She was moaning and groaning as I pumped away and I had a huge grin on my face as my balls slapped against her firm arse. I was in absolute heaven!

But then, just as I was about to lose my wad, the door burst open – and who should be standing there with her hands on her hips – but the WIFE!

She slapped my face, glared at the girl then stomped off, leaving me with my dick going immediately limp and slipping out of the girl's wet fanny.

The wife hadn't spoken to me since that incident two weeks ago until this morning, when she told me she wanted a divorce.

But deep down I still want her and can't bear the thought of living without her.

What can I do?

CJ, East Midlands

Bexie says...

IT'S easy to say you should have thought of that before sticking your cock where you shouldn't, but all you can do now is throw yourself at her mercy. Buy her some treats – and see if she'll now try doggy-style!

Dear Bexie,

Sex, sex and more sex with amazing nympho is wearing me out!

Dear Bexie,

My girlfriend is amazing, in and out of bed, and I really love living with her.

But my problem with her is that she is a raving nymphomaniac and I am finding it very difficult keeping up with her sex drive.

I work hard at my job and when I get home late at night I'm usually pretty knackered.

But as soon as I walk in the door she's there in the front room lying naked on the rug exposing her moist, shaven fanny and with a daft grin on her face.

She won't even let me take my boots off before she's got my dick out – slobbering all over it and sucking on my swollen balls before straddling my length and riding me hard.

Shattered

It's the same story all evening – I don't even get a minute to have something to eat – until we go to bed at around 11pm.

And even then it's more sex until eventually, at something like 2am, she falls asleep and I finally get some peace.

But I have to be up again at 7am, so I'm always shattered. What can I do to satisfy her desire?

RT, Bristol

Bexie says...

WHAT the hell is wrong with you?! Most men would love your "problem". Man the fk up.

...WITH JESSICA MOORE, 34E-25-35, FROM BASILDON, ESSEX

I HAVE a huge thing for sex with strangers.

My wildest ever sexual encounter was when I went to Dublin for a girly weekend away a couple of years ago.

I was in a pub and noticed this really hot guy staring at me. And I couldn't help but stare back.

This went on for about half an hour and then he came by me when I was at the bar and said: "Follow me to the gents."

I'd never done anything like that before but found myself going along with it.

I spotted him inside a disabled toilet with his jeans undone, just waiting for me.

Neither of us said a word to each other. I locked the door behind me and we kissed passionately.

He burst open my top to lick my nipples and worked his fingers into my pants.

I moaned and he put his hand over my mouth to stop us being heard by anyone who may walk in.

I felt so horny as I lifted up my skirt to let him inside me.

It was fast and frantic, and we both came quickly.

Then we quickly dressed and went our separate ways and I didn't even find out his name.

It was dangerous, dirty and totally spontaneous and I loved it and would do it again.

MEGA-busty model Venera Isabella may look like butter wouldn't melt.

But this curvy Czech beauty is absolutely FILTHY and admits to loving threesomes, taboo sex and dressing up in naughty thigh-high boots.

The 32H scorch, who now lives in Colchester, Essex, said: "I like bum love."

"I've never actually had an orgasm from it, but I think it's a really nice treat to give your fella."

"I like dressing up too. I have every outfit going, but my personal fave is a call girl one."

"I love wearing my thigh-high boots in the bedroom."

And describing red-hot threesomes, the babe added: "Me and a sexy female pal treated my man to a threesome on his last birthday."

"We all had the best time ever!"

IT'S finally time to say goodbye to the creepy Crawleys of Downton Abbey and hello to the horny hotties of buxom Bottomley Manor!

For all you red-blooded fellas who love your porn but are bored to tears by dull Downton Abbey this is your lucky day.

Released last week, the UK's most highly anticipated adult movie is available exclusively through the Sport's adult partner Private Shops and, for a limited time they're offering readers another £5 OFF the already low, low price.

Down On Abby is a big budget, full length adult masterpiece starring porn legend Ben Dover and a cast of the hottest adult stars around. It will transport you to Bottomley Manor, home to the Lord Grabhem (played by Ben Dover), his wife (and 2014 AVN nominee) Jasmine Jae, and their two young promiscuous step-daughters, Abby and Fanny.

The Grabhems have invited the Stiffies to dinner and their staff, led by butler Small and footman Master Bates, hurriedly prepare to receive their honoured guests.

But during preparations some members of staff have their own ideas of how to make the night go with a bang! As dinner approaches it seems everyone's got more than fancy nosh on their minds. Mind you, there is plenty of noshing as well as lots of other filth that will even cause a crease in Carson's keks.

We see plenty of R18 DVDs at the Sport but this one is really something special and one you MUST not miss!

This future classic stars Ava Dalush as Missy, Cathy Heaven as Lucy, Emma Leigh as Betty, Jasmine Jae as Lady Wanda Grabhem, Jasmine James as Fanny Grabhem, Jess West as Lady Stiffie, Lexi Lowe as Abby Grabhem, Ben Dover as Lord Will Grabhem, Big Bad Dave as Smithers and Clarke Kent as Master Bates.

FENTON

HOT 'N' HORNY

MARVELLOUS Millie Fenton has more in common with Kim Kardashian than just sexy curves. Because the gorgeous 32DD model has also starred in her own saucy SEX TAPE.

And while Kim's X-rated on-screen performance helped make her a global superstar, Millie is hoping her blue movie stays out of the public eye.

The blonde beauty, from Biddulph, Staffordshire, said: "I made a naughty movie many years ago with an ex."

"It was really hot, both filming it and watching it back."

"It makes you want round two. It makes you feel like a naughty porn star!"

Millie says she loves indulging in a spot of role play too.

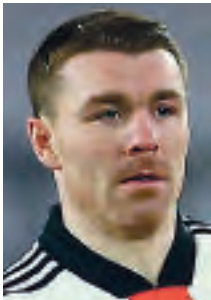

She said: "I love dressing up. I have a kinky maid uniform, which is my favourite."

You have to drop your feather duster and bend over to pick it up!

"I've been tied up and blindfolded, that was so hot."

"I love the element of surprise, not knowing what's coming next."

DOUBT: John Fleck

Fleck on the deck as Euros kick off

SCOTLAND will kick off their Euro campaign against the Czechs with at least one key player missing.

John Fleck has been quarantined from the rest of the squad after testing positive for Covid last week.

The Sheffield United midfielder would be a cert to start for Steve Clarke's men and will be back in training in time for Monday's first group match.

But the gaffer is fearful of him not being ready and getting injured.

Clarke said: "He is up for consideration for the tournament."

"John will get the option when he gets out of quarantine to go home for 24 hours to see his family or he can join us straight at the training camp."

"Because he is in his room isolating it would be a long shot that he is ready for the first game but he is certainly ready for the next two."

Should Fleck miss out, Chelsea youngster Billy Gilmour is in line for a start.

The 19-year-old made his Tartan Army debut in the excellent 2-2 draw with Holland.

Precaution

He came off against Luxembourg but it was just a precaution.

Clarke has been impressed with Gilmour and he's likely to feature in the coming games.

The boss said: "The good news is he's fine. We took him off as a precaution."

"He's a tough boy from Ardrossan. You have to be tough to come from that part of the world."

And Clarke is backing misfiring hitman Lyndon Dykes to come good after missing chances in the Luxembourg clash.

He said: "We had lots of chances. Dykes is a bit disappointed in himself that he didn't get the match ball, he had so many chances and Che had a few as well."

"But I wanted a look at the two strikers and it was good to do that."

"We also wanted a look at a different combination in midfield with Scott McTominay and John McGinn available to play."

RIVERSIDE MATCHES MADE LIFE TOUGH

Gaffer Under Friendly Fire

Warm-up games a pain in the rear for Southgate

GARETH Southgate admits he could have done without the two warm-up games before the Euros.

By PAUL THOMAS

England played out a pair of drab 1-0 wins against Austria and Romania in Middlesbrough as their final preparation for the finals.

The first friendly cost Trent Alexander-Arnold his place at the finals as he limped off injured.

And Southgate admits he didn't learn a lot given that some of the players on the pitch aren't even in his summer squad. And other players like Jordan Henderson and Harry Maguire are battling to be match-fit.

The England boss said: "These two games have been incredibly complicated to prepare for because of the players we have needed to manage through the minutes to avoid further injury."

"That has been extremely complex. Who needs to start?"

"Who needs to come on? How best do we use six subs? The whole season internationally has been very complicated."

"Those three Nations League games scheduled in the autumn were complicated, but these have been more complex than anything we have previously had."

"No doubt about that. Our whole season has been one where we have had to adapt and show resilience."

"Even on Saturday night there were potential issues for Sunday that me and the staff had to work through quickly. It's a constantly changing environment."

"Everyone in the world is dealing with that. We knew ours was more complicated than most, but some of the teams are having to change base, so everyone has their issues."

"We are not unique in that. We have just got to make the best decisions and adapt and show that resilience."

England didn't show a lot in attack in the two games at the Riverside. But it's the team's defending that is giving Southgate sleepless nights.

Romania managed 14 shots on the home goal and a better side like Croatia — who the Three Lions face in the tournament opener — could make those count.

Southgate added: "I didn't like us without the ball in the first half against Romania, but that was the whole team — that started from the front."

"We weren't disciplined in the way we defended. Our recovery runs were not good enough. It meant that the midfield was stretched, the back players had too many decisions to make. Without doubt we can improve on that."

Chances

"I have also got to allow the team that played the reality that we had made a lot of changes and had to preserve some players and give others minutes they needed."

"There is a lot of work to be done, as without a doubt we cannot give up the number of chances we did on Sunday and not expect to be punished. To win tournaments we have to get every aspect of the game right.

"We can improve on all the small details on both the two performances we have had.

"We were able to pick up a lot from the first game and feed them in to the Romania game — some of the things on discipline and details on defending set-plays.

"On Sunday there were other things that weren't good enough that need to be put right before next week's game."

Southgate has some tough choices to make up front for the Euros. Harry Kane is the only guaranteed attacker to start when fit.

Then it's a fight for Raheem Sterling, Marcus Rashford, Phil Foden, Jack Grealish, Jadon Sancho and Dominic Calvert-Lewin all vying for two spots either side of the skipper.

Southgate has to make his mind up. He said: "It's definitely going to be difficult to fit all of them in. It's got to be balanced for any team, and there's always a numbers game.

"In the last couple of games, we've got four attacking players into the team.

Best

Obviously, different teams have different ways of doing that. Chelsea just won a Champions League with only three really.

"We've got to get the right balance, find players who are in form, and find players who we think are our best players for different games. But we're going to need them all through the tournament."

HAAAL TO PLAY FOR

Chelsea will pay £120m for star striker

CHELSEA are prepared to pay what it takes to beat their rivals to Erling Haaland.

The Borussia Dortmund striker has long been top of the Londoners' shopping list.

But it was thought the Norwegian would stay with the Germans for another season — until his £65m release clause kicks in next summer.

But there will be a host of top clubs in for the 20-year-old then — and Chelsea want their man this summer.

Dortmund will do all they can to keep Haaland for another 12 months — and could be willing to forfeit £60m to achieve that. But Blues boss Thomas Tuchel hopes a massive offer can get the job done.

The reigning Champions League winners could throw Tammy Abraham into the deal to persuade the Germans to part with their prized asset.

And they are dangling a whopping £300,000 a week in wages to turn Haaland's head. The spanner in the works for the Stamford Bridge boys could be England Euro 2020 forward Jadon Sancho.

It looks as though he is heading to Manchester United which would mean Dortmund don't need the cash — and would face a fan backlash if their two glamour players left in the same window.
